The Food Guide Pyramid Database

The Food Guide Pyramid Database is a computerized collection of nutrition education materials that feature the Food Guide Pyramid. The goal of this project is to promote the use of the Food Guide Pyramid as an educational tool and make it easier for you to find out what materials others have developed.

This unique database is the result of a partnership between two agencies of the U.S. Department of Agriculture: Human Nutrition Information Service (HNIS) and the Food and Nutrition Information Center (FNIC) of the National Agricultural Library (NAL).

What is in the Food Guide Pyramid Database?

Materials are listed in the database with the source, ordering information, language, target audience, and keywords. This database includes brochures, posters, newsletters, videos, curriculum guides, and training manuals.

How Can You Use The Food Guide Pyramid Database?

If you are looking for materials that feature the Food Guide Pyramid, contact FNIC. FNIC staff will search the database for you. For example, if you are looking for videos for children about the Food Guide Pyramid, a FNIC nutritionist will search the database and send you a computer printout of materials. The complete database will also be available on the HNIS and NAL electronic bulletin boards.

For more information about using the database, contact:

How Can You Help Build the Food Guide Pyramid Database?

Help us make this a useful tool! Send up to three copies of your materials to the HNIS. Include as much information about each publication as possible. If you cannot donate the materials, please send ordering information. We encourage you to pass this information on to your colleagues. We want to include ALL materials that feature the Food Guide Pyramid!

For more information about contributing materials to the database, contact:
